

the basic economic problem

foundations of economics

the basic economic problem

what?

what should be produced and in what quantities?

how?

how should things be produced?

for whom?

for whom should things be produced?

how and who makes these decisions is the key to economic study. there are two theoretical economics systems—the free market and the planned economy